

Rachel Bynoe
Abridged Curriculum Vitae

Education

- PhD. Palaeolithic Archaeology. 2014. University of Southampton, UK
- M.A. Palaeolithic Archaeology and Human Origins. 2008. University of Southampton, UK
- B.A. Archaeology, 2006. University of Reading, UK.

Academic Positions:

- Lecturer in Archaeology, University of Southampton. August 2018 – Present. Full time
- Project curator, British Museum. November 2017 – April 2018. Part time.
- Post-Doctoral researcher, Natural History Museum, Pathways to Ancient Britain Project. June 2016 – June 2017.
- Lecturer in Human Origins, Bournemouth University (maternity cover). February 2016 – June 2016.
- Lecturer in Palaeolithic Archaeology, University of Reading (Sabbatical cover). January 2016 – April 2016.

Selected Publications:

- Bynoe, R., Ashton, N., Lewis, S et al. in prep. Submerged Pleistocene deposits at Happisburgh
- Bynoe, R., Ashton, N., Lewis, S., Parfitt, S., et al. Under review. Coastal curios: an analysis of out of context beach finds for mapping new Pleistocene sites at Happisburgh, UK. Journal of Quaternary Science
- Ashton, N., Lewis, S., Parfitt, S., Bates, M., Bates, R., Bynoe, R., Dix, J., Hoare, P. and Sturt, F., 2018. Understanding and Monitoring the Cromer Forest-bed Formation, Management Report 2016. English Heritage Projects 6234 and 6441
- Bynoe, R., 2018. The submerged archaeology of the North Sea: enhancing the Lower Palaeolithic record of northwest Europe. Quaternary Science Reviews 191: 1-14
- Bynoe, R., 2017. Investigating the submerged Pleistocene Landscapes of the Walle, off Clacton. HE Research Report Series no. 82-2017
- Bynoe, R., Dix, J.K. and Sturt, F., 2016. Of mammoths and other monsters: historic approaches to the submerged Palaeolithic. Antiquity, 90(352): 857-875.

Selected Invited Presentations

- Bynoe, R. 2018. The importance of submerged landscapes for contextualising Pleistocene hominins. The Prehistoric Society Europa Conference 2018. Coastal Archaeology in Prehistory, 22nd June 2018
- Bynoe, R., 2017. Fishermen, fossils and flints: varied approaches to targeting and investigating submerged Palaeolithic archaeology in the North Sea. Cambridge University BioAnthropology seminar series, March 8th
- Bynoe, R., 2017. Pathways to Ancient Britain. Lost and future worlds: marine palaeolandscapes and the historic impact of long-term climate change, Royal Society Meeting, May 15-16th 2017
- Bynoe, R., 2017. Submerged archaeology at Happisburgh: it's better where it's wetter. Pathways to Ancient Britain project meeting, 25-26th May 2017

Selected Public Engagement

- Festival of Archaeology CitiZan podcast, July 2020
- Happisburgh 'Being Human' event, November 2019
- In Our Time, Radio 4, May 2019
- Cromer Fossil Roadshow (part of HE project 7738), July 2019
- Public lecture for Essex Rock and Mineral Society, July 2019
- Raising Horizons school panel event with London schoolgirls, February 2017

Relevant Fieldwork experience (selected from ~14 sites over 14 years)

- Namibian Palaeolithic surface archaeology survey, Namibia. 2010; 2016; 2018.
- Maritime Archaeological Survey of Oman, coastal and underwater surveys in arid environments of Oman, September – December 2015

Fieldwork Direction

- Director, Happisburgh underwater survey, sampling and excavation, UK. 2018-ongoing. Supervision of six team members for diving fieldwork, including two students.
- Director, Walleet underwater survey, UK. 2015. Supervising a team of eight commercial divers.